

Buying a home: New or Old

Contributed by Administrator
Thursday, 21 September 2006
Last Updated Wednesday, 11 October 2006

Of course a home inspection can identify problems that may not be seen by the untrained eye in an older home but new home construction will always be susceptible to errors and problems too.

Most of the work in a new home is Sub-Contracted out to the lowest bidder. the builder, no matter how good of a reputation can not possibly supervise all of the work that goes on in a new home.